

I am very opposed to the FCC allowing the weakening of Indiana's telephone privacy law, as requested by the Consumer Bankers Association (CBA). The CBA is attempting to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption on Indiana consumers. Allowing this could result in my receiving unwanted telephone solicitations from banks, credit card companies, long distance carriers, etc. It is possible that this could translate into over 800 million unwanted calls to Indiana residents. Please reject the CBA's petition.
